The event is the national forum for the German and international biotechnology industry. The German Biotech Days bring together entrepreneurs with scientists and partners from politics, funding institutions and administration. The two-day program will highlight the diverse fields of application and potential of biotechnology, from health research to the bio-economy. The conference language is English. There will also be a big industry exhibition.

The German Biotechnology Days are jointly organized by BIO Deutschland and the Council of German BioRegions. The regional host in Heidelberg is the cluster organization BioRN.

The program for DBT 2025 includes two plenary sessions and numerous symposia and breakout sessions, covering the entire spectrum of biotechnology in terms of content.
