We are pleased to announce and invite you to the first EP PerMed Conference dedicated to Personalised Medicine Research.

During the 1 ½-day event, we will discover various fields of current research in personalised medicine considering various angles like

- Methodologies that support specifically personalised medicine research and the translation of research into clinical practice;
- Application fields with a specific focus on more personalised prevention;
- Inclusiveness focussing on women health and personalised medicine for Children and Adolescents.

The conference also creates a moment to elaborate together on how to support the translation from research into clinical practice. What is the research need and how to support the transition?

This event combines insight into cutting edge research from various perspectives like diagnostics, therapy, technology development, big data, clinical trials, ethical and legal aspects and equity as well as creates a moment for networking to tackle together future challenges in personalised medicine and be ready to upcoming funding opportunities.

To bring personalised medicine on the next level, cross border, multidisciplinary and intersectoral collaboration is the key. This event will bring together expertise from many stakeholders that all share a common goal: To moving the personalised medicine field forward. We look forward to outstanding speakers, presentations and intensive discussions with all conference participants to making this meeting a memorable success.

We are looking forward to seeing you soon in Berlin.
