We believe that life science startups need a well-functioning ecosystem to be successful. That's why we're joining forces and closing the gaps in the value chain from technology transfer to financing clinical trials.

The Life Science Investors' Day facilitates a continuous exchange between investors and founders. Recognizing opportunities early and jointly realizing potential.

2023 will again bring together life science investors, founding projects and startups from all over the world. In one of the most important medical locations in Europe, the Greater Heidelberg Region. We would love you to be part of it!
