Rethink Lab Work Together:

The smartLabs Summit is the new platform for everyone aiming to modernize lab work, making it efficient and future-ready – whether at the bench or behind the budget. The focus is on practical exchange about smart strategies, digital tools and innovative technologies that help optimise processes sustainably. How can workflows be streamlined? How can data be fully documented and sources of error minimised? What does the lab of the future really look like?

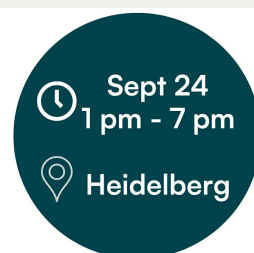

Inspiring answers come from top-class speakers: Julian Lübke (Labforward) will show how voice control and connected devices can revolutionise data capture right at the bench. Mario Richter (AbbVie) will share how AbbVie managed the leap from 100% manual to 100% automated bioanalysis – and how other industries can serve as models on the path towards an autonomous lab. Additional experts will cover practical topics like automation, AI integration, lab digitalisation, sustainability and new demands on lab design.

Alongside the stage program, around 35 exhibitors will showcase their latest technologies and solutions – the perfect opportunity to experience innovations live and talk directly with providers.

After the sessions, a relaxed get-together invites you to round off the day and expand your network with valuable new contacts.
