Organised by the University of Basel, together with its partners from the Life Science Accelerator Baden-Württemberg, BadenCampus, and SEMIA (member of the Quest for change network), the 'Trinational HealthTech Days #3' business event aims to connect innovative startups and the ecosystems from France, Germany and Switzerland to promote international cooperation in the health technology sector (Biotech, MedTech, Digital Health) with a triple challenge:

- A better understanding of the opportunities of strategic foresight and new business models for life science startups.
- A better understanding of how corporates work together with startups to improve their chances of success.
- The opportunity to network with international startups and connect with funds, VCs and corporate investors.
